Interpreting Gang Tattoos

General

Understanding how to interpret tattoos found on gang members need not be a difficult process. Learning the difference between a gang related tattoo, as an identifier versus a non-gang specific body marking is an educational process. Many gang investigators learn to read / interpret tattoos as an ongoing part of their job. A tattoo is a very important symbol of belonging to some gangs. It is one of the most dynamic indicators of gang affiliation a gang investigator has immediate access to. Many gangs use tattoos to indicate membership within a specific gang. It is not uncommon however, to find some groups who do not use any specific tattoo as an identifier.

Tattoos are part of a process of non-verbal communications utilized by gang members. Without the need to verbally communicate, a gang member, as well as observant nongang member can identify a fellow gang member as well as a rival. Often found within books on gangs, both prison and street gang tattoos are provided in either an illustration or an actual gang tattoo. Newer publications often have a photographed example of the gang tattoo. While many gang tattoos are somewhat standardized, the variations of tattoos, "artistic license" employed by the individual gang member or simply the effort to disguise the tattoo, tend to demonstrate the need for education in the understanding of tattoos as an identifier.

Tattoos can be placed into categories describing their format. These categories provide a starting point for the gang investigator. Each category reduces the tattoo to its most common yet simple element.

Categories Of Tattoos :

1. Alpha
2. Numerical
3. Symbolic / Pictorial
4. Combination

Each category represents specific elements common to tattoos utilized by gang members. Prison and street gang members use different tattoo styles yet they share the same categories.

Within each category, it must be understood that gang related tattoos can be intricate in design, hidden within a larger tattoo and stylized by the wearer while still maintaining the gangs identifier. Tattoos should be fully documented, recording specific information as well as the location / area it is on. Photographs should be mandatory for the documentation of gang affiliated tattoos.

It is also important to understand in many cases the tattoo is a symbol of membership in the gang and thus is "gang property." Removal of a gang tattoo may also be an outward non-verbal method demonstrating termination of gang membership.

There are cases where gang tattoos are being covered in order to maintain the covert existence of the gang. If you are able to determine a cover-up tattoo exists, water or baby oil spread on the tattoo may reveal its meaning.

Alpha

Alpha tattoos utilize the alphabet to represent the specific name / acronym of the gang. This is a very common trait used by both prison and street gangs. Acronyms such as AB - Aryan Brotherhood, AW - Aryan Warrior, DWB - Dirty White Boys, NLR - Nazi Low Rider, ABT - Aryan Brotherhood of Texas, NF - Nuestra Familia,

NR - Nuestra Raza, EME - Mexican Mafia, EMI - Mexikanemi, SNM - Sindicato Nuevo Mexico (New Mexico Syndicate), TS - Texas Syndicate and BGF - Black Guerrilla Family represent some of the larger prison gangs

Acronyms such as ABC - Acacia Block Crip, ADC - Atlantic Drive Crip, ECC - East Coast Crip, NHC - Neighbor Hood Crip, SBC - Santana Block Crip, DLB - Denver Lanes Blood, ESP - Elm Street Piru, FTP - Fruit Town Piru, WSP - West Side Piru BGD - Black Gangster Disciple, GD - Gangster Disciple, VL - Vice Lord, CVL - Conservative Vice Lord, LK - Latin King, ALKQN - Almighty Latin King and Queen Nation, BGL - Bell Garden Loco, VN - Varrio Norwalk, WF - White Fence, OLB - Oriental Lazy Boyz, TRG - Tiny Rascal Gang represent only a tiny fraction of the known street gangs.

Alpha style tattoos may appear in Gothic, Old English as well as other styles of lettering.

Body placement may be important in some regions of the country while not as important in other regions. Alpha tattoos may also appear as phrases common to the gang, i.e., Amor de Rey an expression used by Latin Kings, Crip to the Bone occasionally used by various Crip gangs.

Alpha tattoos are very common to both prison and street gangs.

Numerical

Numerical tattoos utilize a number to represent its gang name. They are also a commonly used tattoo by gangs. Numerical tattoos tend to be a geographic indicator as well as a gang name. This category of tattoo uses street numbers, block numbers, as well as area codes to indicate the geographic area they claim. Numerical tattoos seem to be utilized more by street gangs than prison gangs although some prison gangs have been known to use numerical tattoos.

Some notable prison gangs in this category would be the California Aryan Brotherhood and the 415's, a black prison gang based from the San Francisco bay area. The 415's uses the area code of the bay area as its identifier. The Aryan Brotherhood may use the numbers 666 to represent itself as the baddest of the bad. The numbers 666 represent a passage in the book of Revelations 13:16 – 13:18 Area codes may not be an accurate indicator or gang affiliation in all cases. Since the area code represents a large geographic base, the gang uses it to claim a general territory or to identify itself as representing that area code (in the case of larger nationwide gangs). An example of this might be a 206 BGD versus a 312 BGD. 206 is an area code for Seattle while 312 represent Chicago. In this case the gang is using the area code to claim territory in multiple areas of the country while still utilizing the gangs identity. An example of a numerical tattoo utilized to represent a gang name is 18 – 18th St., one of California's larger Southern Hispanic gangs. West Coast Crip style gangs from specific streets in the Los Angeles area have been known to use but not limited to streets such as 21, 43, 52, 62, 74,83, 87, 92, 107 and 357. West Coast Blood style gangs have been known to use but not limited to streets such as 59, 62, 77, 83, 84 and 456. Midwestern gangs such, as BGD's and GD's are known to use 274 and 74 respectively to represent themselves. This is an alpha / numerical code used by Midwestern gangs. In this case the letter A equals the number 1, B=2, C=3 and so on. By substituting the alpha for the numerical equivalent and vice versa the tattoo can be interpreted. This style of tattoo is also found in graffiti and writings.

A certain amount of caution must be employed when viewing tattoos and making a judgment on what gang is represented. In the case of a 74 tattoo, the tattoo can represent a 74 Hoover Crip or a Gangster Disciple (74 = GD). Using tattoos by themselves is not an effective method for determination of gang affiliation but rather a good indicator. An individual who identifies with older Harley Davidson motorcycles (as in 74 cubic inchmotor) can also use the number 74.

Midwestern gangs also utilize a numerical designation to represent what alliance they are affiliated with. This can also be found in tattoo form. These alliances are 5 for People and 6 for Folk. The meaning of the 5 and 6 respectively cross over into various aspects of actual People and Folk recorded information and will not be presented as part of this article.

Numerical tattoos may represent streets and neighborhoods that have nothing in common with the area they are found in. It is common for street gangs to migrate from one area to another and retain their original geographic name / tattoo even if the name is not indigenous to the new location.

California based Hispanics aligned with Northern or Southern influences are a good example of this type of migration. Southern California Hispanics will use the number 13 to indicate they are a Sureno (13 is the letter M in the alphabet demonstrating a Mexican Mafia influence).

Northern California Hispanics will use the number 14 to indicate they are a Norteno (14 is the letter N in the alphabet demonstrating a Nuestra Familia influence). Norteno and Sureno style gangs are found outside of California in various parts of the country, especially the Pacific Northwest.

When you encounter an Alpha or Numerical tattoo that is not readily explained, you should view it as a potential resource of intelligence. As a non-verbal indicator of gang affiliation, it is important to understand what it symbolizes. Familiarity with Alpha and Numerical indicators from the region the gang investigator is in provides faster identification. Likewise, familiarity with Alpha and Numerical indicators from other areas of the country also merits consideration due to the migratory and evolutionary tendencies of gangs.

Symbolic / Pictorial

This category is the most difficult to understand. Symbolic / Pictorial tattoos tend to be at an individual "artistic" level containing the identifier element of the gangs name. Symbolic / Pictorial tattoos are used as an overt method to convey gang affiliation. Prison gangs often fall into this category. Some of the more well known Symbolic / Pictorial prison gang tattoos would be the Shamrock of the Aryan Brotherhood. The AB is now rumored to be utilizing a falcon with references to Sinn Fein. The Mexican Mafia has used a Black Hand also known as the Mano Negro, an eagle with a serpent in its mouth (the serpents body would be in the shape of the letter M) and a shield design known as Eternal war.

The Nuestra Familia uses a Sombrero with a machete dripping blood through it. The Northern Structure / Nuestra Raza has used the Huelga bird and a 5 pointed star known as the northern star. The Fresno Bulldogs may use a Bulldog with a spiked collar. The Black Guerrilla Family has used a dragon coiled around a prison tower.

The Texas syndicate may use various forms shaped as the letters T and S. One tattoo viewed is a Texas Longhorn with its horns being the letter T, with a dragon coiled around it with the coils being the letter S.

Street gangs in this category tend to be less West Coast style and more Midwestern.

Black Gangster Disciples utilize various symbols with the most common being a pitchfork and a 6 pointed star (referred to as the Star of David). Other BGD style tattoos include a heart with wings, flames, tail, horns, bent eared playboy bunny. Depending on the name

Midwestern gangs may use Dragon –Latin Dragons, Cobra – Spanish Cobras.

Vice Lords utilize various symbols with the most common being a 5-pointed star and a champagne glass, top hat and cane and a pitchfork in the down position.

Black P Stones use a pyramid with a 5-pointed star. Latin Kings use a 5 pointed crown and a pitchfork in the down position. Latin Kings also may use a bulldog with a spiked collar with a 5-pointed crown on its head.

Symbolic / Pictorial tattoos do not necessarily follow a standard format. They may be a stand-alone tattoo or part of an intricate tattoo piece with multiple images involved in a theme. This category of gang tattoo may cover large parts of the body.

When conducting a visual examination of gang affiliated individuals with multiple tattoos or heavily tattooed areas, it is best to begin the examination in a specific manner. The starting point is less important than the careful examination of the tattoos themselves. By using a routine method of starting in one area and examining it before moving to the next area, a gang investigator will be more apt to discover the more covert tattoos. By picking a starting point, the visual examination should be conducted in a quadrant format. In the examination of a heavily tattooed individual who wears full length arm tattoos (often referred to as sleeves), divide the arm into quadrants as in fingers to wrist, wrist to elbow, elbow to shoulder etc. A slow, complete side to side sweep of each quadrant can then be made before moving on to the next quadrant. Each quadrant should be slowly examined.

In the examination of an individual who has what may be referred to as a full back piece or full back pack, it is necessary to divide the “piece” into quadrants i.e. shoulder to shoulder, middle back and lower back. Another method might be to divide the back along the spine further dividing each piece into another quadrant by having an upper and lower quadrant. This would effectively divide a full back tattoo into four distinct quadrants. Each quadrant should be visually examined before moving on to the next.

It may be necessary to divide each quadrant again depending on the complexity or artistic license within the tattoo. A rule of thumb should be employed in that the more artistic and complex the tattoo, the smaller the quadrant should be. It is important to complete a thorough examination before moving to the next quadrant. As noted elsewhere, relevant tattoos should be photographed and completely documented.

The gang member may cooperate during this process and tell you the meaning of Symbolic / Pictorial tattoos. Understanding the meaning of the tattoos will allow the gang investigator to develop more intelligence on the gang itself, provide background for future interviews, as well providing information demonstrating the evolution of the gang.

Migration of gang members, from one area of the country to another, brings Symbolic / Pictorial tattoos (as well as other categories) allowing the gang member a more covert identity. Gang tattoo education may provide information for discovery of migrating gangs, lessening the impact they have.

Combination

This category essentially combines all categories. Many gangs often combine categories of tattoos. It is very common to view street gangs with combination tattoos. West Coast black street gangs are a prime example. They often use alpha / numerical (the geographic area in conjunction with the gang acronym) in a tattoo as in 87 KCG – 87th St Kitchen Crip Gang, 21 ICG – 21st St. Insane Crip Gang, 62 ECC – 62nd St. East Coast Crip, 62 HPB 62nd St. Harver Park Brims, 84 SPB – 84th St. Swans Piru Blood. West Coast Hispanic gangs such as F-13 – Florencia –13, F-14 – Fresno Bulldogs, as well as many other California Hispanic gang styles routinely use the gang acronym in conjunction with the number 13 /14 to indicate both geographic style of their gang as well as what gang they tend to align with.

Midwestern gangs may use a symbol of the gang as well as the number of their particular alliance in addition to other numbers / letters to indicate their affiliation. A prime example would be a BGD using a 6-pointed star with a pitchfork going through it. The numbers 274 could be a part of the interior of the 6-pointed star or the letters BGD could be inserted.

The points of the Pitchfork might have the numbers 274 or the letter BGD on it. Gangs using Symbolic / Pictorial tattoos frequently incorporate alpha / numerical tattoos into the main tattoo theme (being the Symbolic / Pictorial).

Combination category tattoos may incorporate all three categories especially if the gang originates from the Midwest. West Coast gangs tend to tattoo with more of an Alpha / Numerical style, unless they have a very clear symbolic identifier routinely used (such as White Fence using a tattoo of a fence with the letters WF on it and the number 1 and 3 on either side of the fence).

Summary

Interpretation of gang tattoos is an integral part of the gang identification process. Tattoo education is a vital part in the overall gang education process. The examples given in this article are only examples expressed for illustration and not intended to represent all gangs / gang tattoos.

As an intelligence tool the interpretation and documentation of tattoos can provide a gang investigator with a great deal of valuable information. In the situation where you are conducting an initial investigation into the gang member's identity, it can provide the name of the gang the suspect is affiliated with. The tattoo may also provide the location or turf (which may provide the actual geographical area the gang is located in), aka's and gang names to include deceased members.

In the case of a suspected gang from another geographic area of the country, a numerical tattoo while not necessarily a gang specific tattoo, may indicate an area code where the gang member has ties. It may also be the exact name of the gang.

Under an ideal situation, interpretation of gang tattoos, may yield the gang's name, geographic region or turf, name of the gang member (often the aka) even the last name tattooed across the shoulders or on the abdomen as well as information regarding members who have died. Names of deceased members may provide an investigator with a starting point for an interview or even to let the investigator know a gang member, they had particular interest in, is now dead.

A useful tool that is a principal by-product of accurate and complete documentation is the practice of continued photographs of the same gang member. This may clearly demonstrate an ongoing gang identity. If you are able to document a gang members continued involvement by showing his new tattoos (most often added while the gang member is new to the gang) and the dates they were added, it demonstrates a clear link to his ongoing gang persona. It also makes it difficult for the gang member to deny affiliation. It may also be a useful tool from a legal standpoint when attempting to show the gang member is actually still part of a gang. For this reason, it is important to photograph the tattoo with a camera capable of inserting the date onto the photo. At the very least, all tattoos should be dated by the individual who took the photo.

ASIAN GANG MEMBERS MARKS, SCARS AND TATTOOS

Robert Walker's Gangs or Us.com: <http://gangsorus.com/asianmrks.htm>

General

Asian street gangs, as well as other street gangs, use marks, scars and tattoos (indicators) to show other members as well as non-members that they are "down for the gang" and involved in criminal activity. These indicators can be intimidating to the victims as well as the general public.

These indicators are important to law enforcement. The majority of subjects contacted with these indicators are gang members, or involved in criminal activity. The most common type of mark found is the cigarette burn. This type of marking will not identify the subject to a particular gang, however, it can help you to connect the person to an Asian gang.

The list of marks, scars and tattoos are the ones most common to the Orange County area of California. They may have other meanings elsewhere in the state, as well as other parts of the United States, but they are still very good indicators.

CIGARETTE BURN MARKS:

Without a doubt, these are the most common form of marking found on Asian gang members. These burn marks may be found in groups of two or more, by themselves or in the form of a design. They are usually found on the back of the hand or on the forearm.

Burn marks at one time indicated if a gang member was active or inactive. They also show bravery or pain, which they have caused the family.

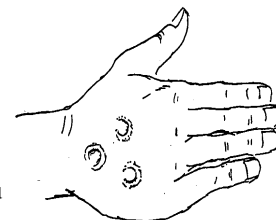

The cigarette burn mark is made by pressing a lit cigarette against the skin for a period of time. Gang members will burn the upper forearm in an attempt to hide it from parents and law enforcement.

THREE (3) DOTS:

The cigarette burn marks are often found in the shape of a triangle, formed by three burn marks. The meaning of the three dots is "my crazy life" and indicates they don't care about anything. In the Vietnamese language it translates to "toi o can gi ca".

FIVE (5) DOTS:

Five cigarette burn marks are also common. They are found in the design found on dice and stand for "a group of close friends" (one person protected by the group). In Vietnamese it translates to "tu hai giai nuynh de".

NINE (9) DOTS:

The original nine "Nip Family" gang members have nine burn marks that stand for the original nine brothers (members). The burn marks are formed in two lines on the forearm.

QUARTER BURNS:

A quarter burn is commonly found on Filipino gang members. It is done by heating a quarter and then placing the hot quarter on the skin. The quarter is pressed into the skin and, depending on how long it is left, depends on how well you can see President Washington's head. The burn marks are usually found on the hands, forearms and legs.

CROSS BURNS:

The cross burn is made by a series of cigarette burn marks. It has been found on "Natoma Boyz" and usually on the back of the hand. The cross burn marks have been found on other gang members and may stand for religious beliefs.

The cross burn and the quarter burn show more extensive pain and are usually more common for the harder core gang members. With all burn marks you will hear various stories as to how they happened or the true meaning.

SCRATCH MARKS:

Asian gang members, or associates, will scratch their gang initials, names or gang emblems into their skin. This is done by a small scraping tool or finger nails. Once the scratches scab and fall off, the initials or emblem is able to be read.

The scratches are common with female gang members or girlfriends of gang members. Younger male gang members, or wannabe's will also mark themselves in this fashion.

SLASH MARKS:

Slash marks are also common with female Asian gang members. They are done by cutting or slashing the skin. They will usually tell you it's for a boyfriend or for the pain they have caused their family.

COINING:

This is a common marks found on Asians. It is a medical practice used in the Asian culture to bring the bad blood to the surface. It is believed that this will cure the medical problem. It is commonly mistaken as child abuse in the schools and hospitals.

Other forms of this practice include pinching the skin between the eyes to cure headache, rubbing a coin on the neck, or pinching the skin of the neck, which is also believed to bring the bad blood to the surface. When found on the neck, it can be mistaken as sexual activity.

THE FOUR (4) T'S (TTTT):

This tattoo is normally found on hard-core gang members, who have done prison time or youth authority time. It is believed that this is an Asian prison type gang, however, this has not been confirmed.

The tattoo is usually done in Gothic style script, but, has been observed in other writing styles. It is usually found on the back of the neck, the back torso, the front torso and on the arms. It has also been seen on fingers, legs and hands.

The four T's have meaning:

TINH - LOVE

TIEN - MONEY

TU -PRISON

TOI -CRIME

A fifth T is sometimes included (THO), which means REVENGE.

PANTHER TATTOOS:

The Black Panther tattoo is a sign of power and can be intimidating to the general Asian public. It has been a common tattoo for Asian gang members.

Some of the panthers will have a single red nail on the paw. This shows a willingness to kill, or could indicate they have already killed. It has been found on the arms, chest and shoulders and with the four T's.

TIGER TATTOOS:

Like the Panther, the tiger is also a sign of power or strength. It has been found on the arm, chest, back and shoulders. It has not been consistently found on any particular gang.

DRAGON TATTOOS:

This is a very common Asian tattoo, not only with gang members, but also with non-gang members. Dragons are a sign of power and can indicate martial art skills. The dragon is also in the Asian culture. The tattoo has been found on Black Dragon gang members, but not exclusive to them.

EAGLE TATTOOS:

These are common with the Wah-Ching and Viet-Ching. The tattoos can be very colorful, or simple with only black ink used. The eagle tattoo has been observed with extended claws, items hanging from the beaks and with extended wings. A red claw has also been observed and seems to be more common with hard core members.

KING COBRA SNAKE:

The King Cobra snake is found only in Southeast Asia and is a common tattoo for the "King Cobra Boyz", a Laotian gang from the Fresno (CA) area.

TEAR DROP:

The tear drop indicates jail time and is usually found on the harder core gang members or criminals.

Note: Tear drop tattoos are not used exclusively by Asian gang members. The open and closed tear drops are also used by White, Hispanic, and Black gang members.

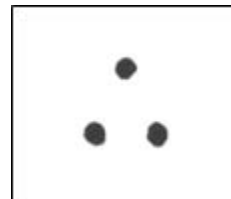

The open tear drop is supposed to indicate that the wearer has killed someone.

The closed tear drop is supposed to indicate that the wearer has lost a family member, a fellow gang member or close friend.

DOT TATTOOS:

The dots are usually in groups of three or five small dot tattoos. The most common locations are the web of the hands, the wrist and elbows. They have the same meaning as the cigarette burn marks.

NOTE: The use of "dots" as a tattoo is not used exclusively by Asian gangs. Hispanic gangs also use a three dot tattoo which may have several meanings; one which may be "Mi Vida Loca" or My Crazy Life. Another may be representative of the "Los Vatos Locos" (The Crazy Dudes or Guys) gang.

Hate Groups

General

- ✓ Member Profile:
 - White Supremacists are generally Caucasians. Some groups allow Latino membership.
 - Some Hate Groups may be of races other than white.
 - Members of Outlaw Motorcycle Gangs are often White Supremacists
- ✓ Various Groups:
 - Black Separatist
 - General Information
 - Black separatists typically oppose integration and racial intermarriage, and they want separate institutions -- or even a separate nation -- for blacks. Most forms of black separatism are strongly anti-white and anti-Semitic, and a number of religious versions assert that blacks -- not Jews -- are the Biblical "chosen people" of God.
 - Although the Southern Poverty Law Center recognizes that much black racism in America is, at least in part, a response to centuries of white racism, it believes racism must be exposed in all its forms. White groups espousing beliefs similar to Black Separatists would be considered clearly racist. The same criterion should be applied to all groups regardless of their color.
 - Groups
 - Nation of Islam
 - New Black Panther Party
 - United Nuwaubian Nation of Moors
 - Neo-Nazi
 - General Information
 - Neo-Nazi groups share a hatred for Jews and a love for Adolf Hitler and Nazi Germany. While they also hate other minorities, homosexuals and even sometimes Christians, they perceive "the Jew" as their cardinal enemy, and trace social problems to a Jewish conspiracy that supposedly controls governments, financial institutions and the media.
 - While some neo-Nazi groups emphasize simple hatred, others are more focused on the revolutionary creation of a fascist political state. Nazism, of course, has roots in Europe, and links between American and European neo-Nazis are strong and growing stronger. American neo-Nazi groups, protected by the First Amendment, often publish material and host Internet sites that are aimed at European audiences -- materials that would be illegal under European anti-racism laws. Similarly, many European groups put up their Internet sites on American servers to avoid prosecution under the laws of their native countries.
 - The most important neo-Nazi group in the U.S. is the National Alliance. Until his death, it was led by William Pierce, the infamous author of the futuristic race-war novel The Turner Diaries, a book believed by some to have served as the blueprint for the 1995 Oklahoma City bombing.

- Neo-Confederate
 - General Information
 - Many groups celebrate traditional Southern culture and the Civil War's dramatic conflict between the Union and the Confederacy. But some groups go further and embrace racist attitudes towards blacks and, in some cases, white separatism. Such groups are listed in this category.
 - The League of the South, founded in 1994 and counting some 9,000 members by 2001, is at the center of the racist neo-Confederate movement. Calling once again for Southern secession, the League's leaders say minorities are destroying the "Anglo-Celtic" (white) culture of the South. They oppose most non-white immigration and all interracial marriages. Founder Michael Hill, a former college professor, has called blacks "a deadly and compliant underclass" and has embraced well-known white supremacists such as North Carolina attorney Kirk Lyons.
 - Groups
 - League of the South
 - Free Mississippi
 - Free South
- Racist Skinhead
 - General Information
 - Groups
 - Skinheads
 - Nazi Skinheads
- Christian Identity
 - General Information
 - The Christian Identity religion asserts that whites, not Jews, are the true Israelites favored by God in the Bible. In most of its forms, Identity theology depicts Jews as biologically descended from Satan, while non-whites are seen as soulless "mud people" created with the other Biblical "beasts of the field." Christian Identity has its roots in a 19th-century English fad called British Israelism, which asserted that European whites were descended from the ten "lost tribes" of Israel and were thus related to Jews, who were descended from the other two Hebrew tribes mentioned in the Bible. But British Israelism, which was initially friendly to Jews, was adopted and transformed in the 20th century into a rabidly anti-Semitic creed by a number of racist preachers in the United States.
 - For decades, identity has been one of the most important ideologies for the white supremacist movement. In its hardest line form, it asserts that Christ will not return to earth until the globe is swept clean of Jews and other "Satanic" influences. In recent years, deep doctrinal disputes, the lack of a central church structure, and a shift among white supremacists towards agnosticism and racist variations of neo-Paganism have weakened the Identity movement and reduced the number of its adherents.

- ✓ Recruitment Methods on Inmates and Continuing Contact
 - Recruitment
 - For extremists groups, inmates represent a valuable source of potential recruits, people who can carry on the struggle while in prison and after their release. As a result, fringe groups and movements from all over the political spectrum attempt to exert an influence with in the prison walls.
 - Newsletters and other forms of written correspondence keep inmates informed of day-to-day events and provide a missing connection to the world outside.
 - One of the first white supremacists systematically to reach out to inmates was Richard Butler, founder of Aryan Nations, a neo-Nazi and Christian Identity group. Aryan Nations established its "prison ministry" in the late 1970's, setting an example that many other Identity adherents would follow.
 - White supremacists in prison frequently claim adherence to various religious sects not just as an expression of racist beliefs but also as a way to circumvent prison regulations. Asatru, a Nordic religion widely practiced by non-racists, is becoming widely shared among white racists and is used as a venue for organizing.
 - In addition to Identity and Asatru groups, the World Church of the Creator is particularly active in prisons.
 - Contact with Prisoners
 - Many extremist groups not only recruit prisoners but also provide support to members or adherent who are already in prison.
 - These prisoners are referred to as Prisoners of War or “P.O.W.’s”.
 - While right-wing extremists dominate prisoner recruiting, left-wing groups provide more extensive support to imprisoned members.

- ✓ WPWW - White Pride World Wide. It is used as a greeting to show pride in the white race around the world.
- ✓ UAO - United As One is a short greeting used by racists to signify the need to unite for a common cause—the preservation of the white race.
- ✓ Unsere Ehre Heisst Treue - The slogan of Hitler's Waffen-SS troops during World War II. Translates: "Our Honor is Loyalty."
- ✓ Weiss Macht - "White Power"
- ✓ ZOG/JOG - Zionist-Occupied Government/Jewish-Occupied Government. These terms refer to the belief that the Jews occupy and control the government, as well as the media. The letters often appear in a circle with a slash over it.

Russian Mafia

General

- ✓ Member Profile:
 - Russian crime figures have been identified in cases involving extortion, prostitution, insurance and medical fraud, auto theft, counterfeiting, credit card forgery, narcotics trafficking, fuel tax fraud, money laundering, and murder.
 - During the past several years, some Russian émigrés have established a growing number of loosely structured criminal networks in this state that are involved in sophisticated criminal activities.
 - Many Russian organized crime groups in the United States have ties to organized crime groups in Russia.
 - During the 1970s and 1980s, according to the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service, approximately 200,000 Soviet citizens, many who were Russian-Jewish refugees, immigrated to the U.S. Although the Soviet government liberalized its Jewish immigration policy, it is believed that under this guise the KGB also emptied their prisons of hard-core criminals, much like Cuban dictator Fidel Castro did during the Mariel boatlift of 1980. Many of these criminals are believed to have continued their life of crime in the United States.
- ✓ Location:
 - Missoula, MT; Spokane, WA and throughout the United States.
 - Main Operations began in New York City in the 1970's.
 - Russian organized crime networks are also operating in Los Angeles, San Francisco, San Jose, Sacramento, San Diego, New York, Boston, Chicago, Miami, Cleveland, Philadelphia, and Seattle.
- ✓ Comrades:
 - Organized crime syndicates from Russia, Asia, and Africa are forming alliances with traditional Italian and Latin American organizations, creating a formidable threat to international peace and stability.
- ✓ Rivals:
 - Anyone interfering with their operations.

- ✓ From the mid 1960's to the 1980's, approximately 35 million people were incarcerated in Soviet prisons. Approximately 28 to 30 million Russian inmates were tattooed. According to criminologist Arkady G. Bronnikov, who has studied tattoos of Russian prisoners for 30 years, inmates wore tattoos only after they had committed a crime. The more convictions a criminal received, and as the terms of incarceration became more severe, the more tattoos a convict would have.
- ✓ Tattoos spell out lives of crime and establish the hierarchy of inmates. According to Bronnikov, at the top of the hierarchy are "pakhans" or organized crime bosses. The pakhans use the second level of the echelon known as the "authorities," (also known as enforcers, fighters, or soldiers) to carry out their orders. The "men" are the hard laborers and are the third level in the hierarchy. The lowest category are the "outcasts." These individuals are basically slaves to the upper levels of the echelon.
- ✓ The tattoos present a picture of the inmate's criminal history. According to Bronnikov, "Tattoos are like a passport, a biography, a uniform with medals. They reflect the convict's interests, his outlook on life, his world view." A prisoner with an incorrect or unauthorized tattoo could be punished or killed by fellow inmates.
- ✓ Law Enforcement agencies in California and the United States can expect to see more of these tattoos as the Russian criminal element surfaces. The tattoos may be of assistance in determining the subject's criminal background and activity.

- ❖ A thief is bound by the Code to:
 1. Forsake his relatives--mother, father, brothers, sisters...

 5. Keep secret information about the whereabouts of accomplices (i.e. dens, districts, hideouts, safe apartments, etc.).
 6. In unavoidable situations (if a thief is under investigation) to take the blame for someone else's crime; this buys the other person time of freedom.

 8. If necessary, participate in such inquiries.
 9. Carry out the punishment of the offending thief as decided by the convocation.
 - A convocation is a group of people formally assembled for a special purpose.
 10. Not resist carrying out the decision of punishing the offending thief who is found guilty, with punishment determined by the convocation.
 11. Have good command of the thieves' jargon ("Fehnay").
