Introduction
The Concealment Smartbook is produced by the New York State Intelligence Center and is intended for raising the situational awareness of NYS-specific concealments to law enforcement.

Intention:
- Promote officer safety
- Assist with narrowing officers’ searches
- Identify concealment patterns, trends, and issues
- Identify criminal activity and otherwise assist criminal investigations

Requests for Information

Law enforcement agencies are encouraged to request and submit concealments by contacting the New York State Intelligence Center (NYSIC)- Narcotics Intelligence Unit (NIU). The following is provided for your convenience:

HYDRAULIC DASH COMPARTMENT HIDES COCAINE AND WEAPON

Date: November 1, 1999
Vehicle: 1991 Buick (unknown model)
Location: I-87 in the Town of Clarkstown, Rockland County, NY
Concealment: Hydraulic compartment in dash behind instrument panel
Contents: Pistol - loaded (NFI). Approximately 255 grams of ‘powdered’ cocaine
Packaging: Plastic bag (double bagged)
Masking Agent: Mustard within outer plastic bag

Analyst Note: Access to the compartment was through the dash trim (as its cover) and facilitated by a hydraulic arm that extended from the firewall of the vehicle to the dash area. In addition, three bags containing small quantities of personal use contraband were located in plain view. They may have been intended to deter additional search efforts.

REAR DECK TRAP CONCEALS 5 KILOGRAMS OF COCAINE

Date: June 13, 2007
Vehicle: 1994 Cadillac Sedan Deville 4-door
Location: unknown
Concealment: Rear package tray
Contents: Five kilograms of ‘powdered’ cocaine
Packaging: unknown
Masking Agent: N/A

Analyst Note: Access to the compartment was controlled by a hydraulic piston lifting the rear package tray. See page 14 for similar concealment within a 1995 Dodge Intrepid.

Information and photos courtesy of Queens Intelligence, NY/NJ HIDTA, NY.
Date: Unknown
Vehicle: Chevrolet S-10 (unknown year)
Location: Mooers, Port-of-Entry (POE), Clinton County, NY
Concealment: Spare tire
Contents: 3.2 kilograms ecstasy
Packaging: Dog food bags containing clear plastic bags of suspected blue-colored ecstasy pills
Masking Agent: N/A

Analyst Note: A spare tire rim that did not match those on the vehicle, and scratches on the rim led to a secondary inspection. The operator was a 32 year-old female Canadian citizen who had been making weekly trips to Plattsburgh, NY.

Date: July 11, 2006
Vehicle: Chevrolet Venture
Location: I-87, Town of Ramapo, Rockland County, NY
Concealment: Within passenger side sliding door
Contents: 325 grams of heroin, $6,031 (USD) secreted inside minivan and on front passenger’s person
Packaging: Two heat-sealed plastic bags
Masking Agent: Coffee grounds

Analyst Note: The Trooper received conflicting stories upon questioning, and viewed a marihuana ‘blunt’ in the ashtray leading to a K-9 search.
TRUCK BEDS & BEDLINERS OFFER FACTORY VOIDS

Date: Unknown
Vehicle: Full-size regular cab 4WD pickup trucks, most often Chevrolet or GMC makes
Location: Northern NY, Clinton, Franklin, Essex, Hamilton, St. Lawrence counties
Concealment: Compartments built into the sidewalls of the truck beds and concealed by bed liners. Normally two on either side, one in front of and one behind each rear wheel well.
Contents: Can easily conceal up to 45 kilograms of marihuana
Packaging: Garbage bags or plastic wrap
Masking Agent: N/A

Analyst Note: The compartments are commonly fabricated by cutting out the double wall bed protection and welding a piece of sheet metal from the frame rail to the floor. They are often sealed with a piece of plywood or sheet-metal and then weather-stripping to keep the odor of the marihuana from escaping. Many of the trucks have a bed liner, which is replaced once the compartments have been filled.

Additional Note: Some indicators that may alert Law Enforcement to the use of these concealment methods:

• Sheetrock screws used to secure the bed liner to the truck.
• fasteners that appear ‘tooled’ (removed and replaced several times).
• scratches on the exterior of the bed from sliding the bed liner in and out several times.

HYDRAULIC DASHBOARD COMPARTMENT CONCEALS COCAINE

Date: April 18, 2007
Vehicle: 2002 Chevy Impala 4-door
Location: 90th Precinct, NYPD
Concealment: Hydraulic compartment within dashboard
Contents: 161 bags ‘powdered’ cocaine
$1,200 (USD)
Packaging: Unknown
Masking Agent: N/A

Analyst Note: The compartment was located under the passenger side of the dashboard and was operated via a hydraulic piston.

CROSS BAR BEAM OFFERS NATURAL VOID CONCEALMENT

Date: August 14, 2006
Vehicle: 2001 Chrysler Intrepid
Location: Mooers, NY, POE, Clinton County
Concealment: Natural void in cross bar beam
Contents: $294,925 (USD)
Packaging: Bundles
Masking Agent: N/A

Analyst Note: Secondary inspection conducted due to driver’s inconsistent responses. Several bundles of currency were removed from the void in the trunk’s cross beam. Subsequent scan of the vehicle with the VACIS (Vehicle and Cargo Inspection System) revealed additional currency bundles remained.

A total of $289,591 (USD) was removed from the beam, and an additional $5,334 (USD) was seized from the driver.

Additional Note: Dodge Intrepid sedans were badged and sold as "Chrysler Intrepid" sedans in Canada.

Note: Not actual car from seizure

FOUR INCH AFTER MARKET VOID UNDER REAR DECK

Date: February 2, 2006
Vehicle: 1999 Chrysler Concord
Location: I-90, Madison County, NY
Concealment: Hidden compartment under rear deck
Contents: $6,000 (USD)
Packaging: unknown
Masking Agent: N/A

Analyst Note: Due to inconsistent stories from vehicle occupants, a K-9 search was conducted resulting in alerts to the passenger door, center console, trunk, and backrest of the rear seat. Within the trunk there were several indicators that a hidden compartment was present, including new carpet, weld marks, paint overspray, and carpet covering the speaker holes. When the rear seat was folded down, a four inch difference was observed between the rear deck inside the car and the rear deck in the trunk. A non-factory metal bar with a spring mechanism was observed. The mechanism consisting of a wire connected to a set of bypass cables and the car battery was used to control the locking/unlocking of the trap. A bundle of currency totaling $6,000 (USD) was found stashed in the compartment.

TRAP BEHIND RADIO

Date: January 24, 2007
Vehicle: Chrysler 300M
Location: Brooklyn, NY
Concealment: Trap installed behind radio
Contents: Heroin
Packaging: Glassine Envelopes, “Miami Vice” in red ink, with an unidentified symbol
Masking Agent: N/A
Analyst Note: N/A

Concealed Compartment in a PT Cruiser

Date: November 16, 2007
Vehicle: 2003 Chrysler PT Cruiser
Location: NYC
Concealment: Concealed compartment behind the tail light assembly
Contents: 11 kilograms of ‘powdered’ cocaine
Packaging: Unknown
Masking Agent: N/A

Analyst Note: 11 kilograms of cocaine were uncovered in a concealed compartment behind the tail light of this vehicle. The compartment was manually manipulated by removing the screws that attach the tail light lenses to the body. After removing the lens the cocaine was placed into the void of the rear quarter panels. The sole modification to the vehicle was a rectangular piece of wood screwed into the floor covering a natural opening in the floor’s quarter panels.
Date: April 5, 2007
Vehicle: 1999 Dodge Intrepid
Location: I-90, Ext 34A, Town of Dewitt, Onondaga County, NY
Concealment: Natural void in cross-bar beam
Contents: 2 kilograms ‘powdered’ cocaine
198 grams ‘crack’ cocaine
$50,000 (USD)
Three handguns (various types)
Packaging: Unknown
Masking Agent: N/A

Analyst Note: The compartment was created by the construction of a false wall in the trunk; the trunk-side of the wall was camouflaged with a material that resembled the trunk lining. The front panel of the compartment was attached to the rear seatback, and the seatback essentially served as the compartment door. The rear seat seatback/door was opened and closed by an electrically-operated hydraulic piston that was mounted inside of the cross-bar beam under the rear speaker deck. The troopers identified the presence of the compartment by pulling the top edge of the rear seat seatback forward. The compartment was revealed in part because the top edge of the seatback was loose, and when officers pulled on it, the seatback moved forward slightly, revealing the compartment.
Additional Notes: The handguns seized were a 9mm automatic, .40-cal. automatic, and a .25-cal. automatic. Two of the pistols were found loaded. Additionally, the .40-cal. pistol was suspected of having been used in a shooting earlier that day in Utica, NY. The subjects did not reveal how the mechanism was activated, but there were wires running from the hydraulic piston in the cross-bar beam under the rear speaker deck to the driver's side of the dashboard.

Information and photos courtesy of NYSP, Troop T.
Additional information provided by Queens Intelligence, NY/NJ HIDTA.
COMPARTMENT UNDER FALSE FLOOR IN TRUNK

Date: October 28, 2005
Vehicle: 2002 Dodge Intrepid
Location: NYC, NY
Concealment: False floor in trunk
Contents: $250,000 (USD)
Packaging: bundles
Masking Agent: N/A

Analyst Note: The compartment was constructed by attaching the trunk floor pan from another Dodge Intrepid. The second trunk floor pan was installed approximately 6 inches above the actual trunk floor. The false trunk floor had the appearance of the original trunk floor and included the recessed spare tire well in the center and ribbing in the flat sections of the sheet metal. The compartments were accessed from outside of the trunk by first removing the plastic rear bumper cover and then by removing access panels or plastic vents in the lower sections of the sheet metal that forms the sides and rear of the actual trunk structure.

Information and photos courtesy of NYPD, DEA New York Field Division, additional information provided by Queens Intelligence, and the NY/NJ HIDTA.

See more case photos on the next page!
Additional notes: There are no clear indications that the false floor was extensively welded or riveted in place. It does appear that a metal bonding agent, such as epoxy or bondo, was applied along the perimeter of the false floor pan. The false floor pan may have been a new, aftermarket, body part or it may have been removed from a salvaged Dodge Intrepid.

REAR DECK CONCEALMENT

Date: June 13, 2007
Vehicle: 1995 Dodge Intrepid
Location: Unknown
Concealment: Hydraulic compartment under rear package tray
Contents: 24 kilograms ‘powdered’ cocaine
Packaging: Unknown
Masking Agent: N/A

Analyst Note: See pages 5 and 11 for similar cases.

UNEVEN FLOOR CARPET REVEALS 3,146 HEROIN DECKS

Date: Unknown
Vehicle: 1994 Dodge Caravan
Location: Unknown
Concealment: Electronically-controlled under floorboard
Contents: 3,146 decks of heroin
Packaging: Decks
Masking Agent: N/A

Analyst Note: Unevenness in the floor carpet near the sliding door revealed a slit in the carpet that had duct tape beneath it and a non-factory wire. A by-pass tool, used to supply power to this wire, produced a motorized sound and caused the carpet in the area to move revealing the hidden compartment.
FACTORY VOIDS BENEATH INTERIOR DOOR MOLDING

Date: Unknown
Vehicle: 2002 Dodge Caravan
Location: Massena, NY POE, St. Lawrence County
Concealment: Natural void beneath interior molding throughout van
Contents: 2 kilograms of marihuana
Packaging: plastic bag
Masking Agent: Moth balls, dryer sheets

Analyst Note: Upon opening the side door of the van, it was noticed that the interior molding had been tampered with. The rubber weather stripping was caught beneath the edge of the molding and there were tool markings on the plastic molding. The marihuana was located beneath the interior moldings throughout the van.
DODGE MAGNUM TRAP

Date: Oct 29, 2007
Vehicle: 2005 Dodge Magnum
Location: Unknown
Concealment: Motorized cable release trap behind center console
Contents: N/A
Packaging: N/A
Masking Agent: N/A
Analyst Note: None

Information and photos courtesy of Auto Crime Division, Queens, NY

Space Left Intentionally Blank
Date: October 24, 2007
Vehicle: 1996 Dodge Caravan
Location: Route 81-S in Fincastle, VA
Concealment: A sophisticated hidden trap located under the second row seat with access gained through the cup-holder area. A magnet had to placed on the dash in a certain area in order for the trap to open automatically.
Contents: Marihuana (Unknown amount).
Packaging: Unknown
Masking Agent: Unknown

Analyst Note: On October 24, 2007, a VGTOF “Hit Notification” was received by the NYSIC-GIU involving a traffic stop by the Botetourt County Sheriff’s Office, on Route 81-S in Fincastle, VA. Officers noticed an odor of marihuana emanating from the vehicle.

An inspection of the vehicle revealed a sophisticated hidden trap located under the second row seat with access gained through the cup holder area. Once the van was seized and the scene searched, a magnet was located on the ground. When the magnet was placed on a specific area of the dashboard, the hidden compartment opened automatically. The three subject in the vehicle were New York residents and were involved earlier that year with weapon incidents in Orange County, NY. The subjects are self-admitted members of the Bloods.

Information and photos courtesy of Orangetown PD, NY, the Botetourt County Sheriff’s Office, Fincastle, VA, and the New York State Intelligence Center.
Date: December 20, 2008
Vehicle: 2002 Dodge 1500 Pick-Up Truck
Location: SR-11 in the Town of Chateguay, Franklin County, NY
Concealment: Spare tire under bed of truck
Contents: 6.8 Kilograms of marihuana
Packaging: Several vacuum-sealed bags
Masking Agent: N/A

Analyst Note: This incident revealed two indicators that may point officers to a spare tire concealment. The spare tire, which was found secured under the vehicle, did not appear to fit the standard type or size for a Dodge 1500 Pick-Up. Also, the wear on the tire and rust on the rim does not appear to be consistent with the wheels mounted on the truck.

An indicator of nefarious activity, also witnessed with this incident, as that the truck was not operated by the owner.

CENTER CONSOLE TRAP IN MUSTANG

Date: December 29, 2006
Vehicle: 1999 Ford Mustang Coupe
Location: Unknown
Concealment: Natural void under cup holder assembly in center console
Contents: .380-caliber automatic pistol
Packaging: N/A
Masking Agent: N/A

Analyst Note: The compartment is a factory void space in the plastic center console that was designed to hold a wiring harness. The compartment is accessible by removing the console-mounted cup holder assembly, which was held in place by plastic snap-in tabs.

Additional Notes: While this compartment was not specifically designed as a convenience compartment for vehicle occupants, it appears that a minor modification can turn it into a hidden compartment for contraband. The cup holder assembly can be pried up with a small screwdriver, and the plastic tabs that lock the cup holder assembly in place can be filed down or broken off. This allows the compartment to be accessed by lifting the cup holder assembly up. Open source research indicates that this type of console/cup holder configuration was also installed in the 2000 Ford Mustang.

WELDED COMPARTMENT BETWEEN DASH AND FIREWALL

Date: August 31, 2007
Vehicle: 2000 Ford Focus
Location: I-95 NYC, traveling from Hackensack, NJ to Lawrence, MA
Concealment: Welded compartment between firewall and front dash
Contents: 11 kilograms of ‘powdered’ cocaine
Packaging: Unknown
Masking Agent: Laundry detergent

Analyst Note: To gain access, the front dash was removed. A metal grinder was used to cut open the welded and painted compartment.

Information and photos courtesy of NYC DETF - Group T31, NY
Hidden Compartment in Roof of Ford Taurus

Date: November 2006
Vehicle: 2004 Ford Taurus 4-door
Location: Unknown
Concealment: Hidden roof compartment
Contents: N/A
Packaging: N/A
Masking Agent: N/A
Analyst Note: A fake ceiling was added inside the vehicle and four window motors were modified to open and close the compartment. The fake ceiling was thin enough so that it was not discernable to the eye. The handle above the rear driver's side door was wired to control the compartment, which allowed the suspects to place a live electrical current discharge into the screws holding the handle in place, and thereby activating the compartment.

Fake Auxiliary Fuel Tank

Date: March 31, 2007
Vehicle: 2004 F350 diesel pickup
Location: Unknown
Concealment: Auxiliary fuel tank
Contents: N/A
Packaging: N/A
Masking Agent: N/A

Analyst Note: The fuel tank had an electric fuel pump (not wired to any power supply) like most designed to support construction/logging service vehicles. The tank was spotless, showing no signs of grease or spilled fuel on or around the tank, indicating it had never been used. Upon opening the tank’s filler cap, a fuel odor was lacking and it appeared that fuel had never been inside the tank. After turning the tank on its side a trap panel secured by bolts was located on the bottom side of the tank. Once the panel was removed, a sealed commercial storage box with a locking T-handle was discovered. The box was welded in place inside the fake fuel tank.

SPEAKER BOX CONCEALMENT

Date: February 21, 2007
Vehicle: 2000 Ford Explorer
Location: I-87, Town of New Baltimore, Greene County
Concealment: Speaker box
Contents: 33 bags of marihuana totaling 17 kilograms
Packaging: N/A
Masking Agent: N/A

Analyst Note:
The speaker box compartment was accessible via an electronic release. This concealment method is the second time a Kicker™ KX model amplifier was attached to an aftermarket compartment.

X-RAY SHIELDING USED TO HIDE COMPARTMENT

Date: January 2002
Vehicle: Ford Expedition (unknown year)
Location: U.S./Canada Border (NFI)
Concealment: Concealed compartment behind rear passenger seats and beneath floor
Contents: $449,950 (USD)
Packaging: X-ray film
Masking Agent: N/A

Analyst Note: Traffickers believe that the use of x-ray film is an excellent means of deterring detection if a MVIS (Mobile Vehicle Inspection System) scan is utilized. Experiment by CBP determined that x-ray films do not conceal contents from MVIS scans.

Location: I-90, Ohio, traveling from New York to Illinois
Concealment: Auxiliary fuel tank
Contents: $571,650 (USD)
Packaging: N/A
Masking Agent: N/A

Analyst Note: Several indicators of possible criminal activity were present to include: inconsistent stories about the trip, excessive nervousness, criminal drug-related histories, screws missing from the bed liner, fresh scratches on the auxiliary fuel tank, and a drug detection K-9 alert to the fuel tank area.

Vehicle: 2003 GMC Yukon
Location: Unknown
Concealment: Stereo Kicker Box
Contents: 11 zip lock bags of marihuana, $9,600 (USD), police scanner, and rear vehicle camera
Packaging: Zip lock bags
Masking Agent: N/A

Analyst Note: Similar concealment on page 24

Information and photos courtesy of NYSP Middletown, NYSP Monroe, and Troop F CTIU
Date: Feb 28, 2008
Vehicle: 1993 GMC pickup
Location: Waddington, NY
Concealment: 18 marihuana packages hidden within several factory voids of the vehicle
Contents: 50lbs of marihuana
Packaging: Several heat-sealed plastic bags
Masking Agent: N/A

Analyst Note: Officer detected the odor of marihuana emanating from vehicle after the passenger side door was opened. The driver then stated that the passenger window was broken and would not go down. Troopers discovered that the window would not lower because marihuana concealed below the glass in the door panel prevented the window from operating.

Wheel Well Concealment Yields 16 Kilograms of Cocaine

Date: September 2, 2006
Vehicle: 2003 Honda Accord 4-door
Location: Unknown
Concealment: Multiple traps
Contents: 16 kilograms of ‘powdered’ cocaine
Packaging: N/A
Masking Agent: N/A

Analyst Note: The traps were located in the left and right rocker panels. To access the traps, the under coating and steel plates had to be removed from the rear wheel wells.

HEADLINER CONCEALS 13.2 KILOGRAMS OF ECSTASY

Date: Unknown
Vehicle: Honda CRV (Unknown year)
Location: Champlain, NY POE, Clinton County
Concealment: Headliner
Contents: 13.2 kilograms ecstasy
Packaging: N/A
Masking Agent: N/A

Analyst Note: The vehicle was referred for a VACIS inspection due to records in TECS (narcotics/currency) on the operator, who was a 29 year-old male Vietnamese national who had Canadian citizenship. The operator and vehicle were enroute to the Foxwoods Casino in Connecticut.
Date: May 14, 2008
Vehicle: 2002 Honda Accord
Location: Forest Hills, Queens, NY
Concealment: A concealment trap installed beneath the rear seat
Contents: $30,000 (USD)
Packaging: N/A
Masking Agent: N/A

Analyst Note: Members of NYDETF Group T-31 executed search warrants of a residence and car of defendant. During the search of the vehicle members discovered a non-factory installed metal panel under the carpet in the rear passenger seat area. Further examination revealed a concealment trap installed beneath the rear seat containing the trap, which was opened by synchronizing the following actions:

- vehicle running
- air vent to left of steering wheel turned to the left
- cruise control on
- power mirror button pushed to driver’s mirror
- driver’s side window button pushed to close the window

MANUFACTURED VOID BUILT WITHIN TRUNK

Date: January 19, 2009
Vehicle: 2007 Nissan Altima
Location: NYC
Concealment: Factory void located beneath the driver’s side door panel armrest.
Contents: 9mm Taurus handgun and four (4) ounces of cocaine.
Packaging: Unknown
Masking Agent: N/A

Analyst Note: According to Nissan, this is a factory void that is commonly utilized for wiring and is usually held in place by tabs that snap into the door panel.

FACTORY VOID BENEATH DRIVER’S SIDE ARM REST

Date: January 13, 2009
Vehicle: 2002 Nissan Maxima
Location: NYC
Concealment: Trunk, accessible via rear seat center console/arm rest
Contents: 227 grams of marihuana
Packaging: Unknown
Masking Agent: N/A

Analyst Note: The void measured approximately eight inches high by six inches wide and over 12 inches deep. This trap was not visible from the vehicle trunk though it was integral to the sound system. To access the compartment, simply pull down the armrest from its up position as part of the rear seat back rest.

MARIHUANA HIDDEN WITHIN SPARE TIRE

Date: September 25, 2007
Vehicle: 2007 Toyota Corolla
Location: Norfolk, NY
Concealment: 1/2 lb Ziploc packages hidden within spare tire
Contents: Appr. 20 bags of marihuana
Packaging:
Masking Agent: N/A

Analyst Note: Officers became suspicious, as the tire shown in the photo was a second spare tire, and was too large for the vehicle carrying it.

NATURAL VOIDS IN SPEAKER, WHEEL PANEL, AND TAILGATE

Date: January 22, 2006
Vehicle: Unknown
Location: Champlain POE, Clinton County, NY
Concealment: Natural voids within interior panels-speaker, wheel panel, and tailgate
Contents: 6.5 kilograms marihuana
Packaging: N/A
Masking Agent: N/A

Analyst Note: The suspects were two Canadian female traffickers, ages 26 and 27, accompanied by three minor children. Appearance of ‘family travel’ has been observed to try and deter suspicion.

COMPARTMENT WITHIN REAR SEAT

Date: October 30, 2000
Vehicle: Unknown
Location: I-90, Town of Batavia, Genesee County, NY
Concealment: Hidden compartment between rear seat and trunk
Contents: Two 9mm semi automatic pistols, $61,080 (USD), and 35 untaxed cigarette cartons
Packaging: N/A
Masking Agent: N/A

Analyst Note: Access to the compartment was facilitated by an electronically-controlled access panel, which was exposed when the arm rest was lowered (top right photo). An actuator arm (bottom left photo) was connected to the panel so that the panel could slide to one side, revealing a crude compartment cut into the wall between the rear seat and the trunk (bottom right photo). A steel plate was riveted in place to cover the vehicle trunk lock, preventing its use (photo below).

COCAIN IN VEHICLE FRAME

Date: Unknown
Vehicle: Unknown
Location: Unknown
Concealment: Vehicle frame
Contents: 567 grams ‘powdered’ cocaine
Packaging: Package wrapped in duct tape and inner plastic bag heat-sealed
Masking Agent: Grease

Analyst Note: Upon removing the front section of the vehicle, two compartments within the frame in the front area of the vehicle were revealed (pictured below, left). Sealing machine had been previously secured at a residence associated with the investigation.

ELECTRONICALLY-CONTROLLED COMPARTMENT BEHIND REAR SEAT

Date: March 3, 2002
Vehicle: Unknown
Location: Plattsburgh, NY, Clinton County
Concealment: Hidden electronic compartment behind rear seat
Contents: High-grade marihuana (NFI)
Packaging: Zip lock bags contained in duffle bags
Masking Agent: N/A

Analyst Note: Access to this compartment was controlled by a switch located underneath the dash on the driver's side.
Unknown Vehicles

ELECTRONICALLY-CONTROLLED COMPARTMENT BENEATH CENTER CONSOLE

Date: October 2002
Vehicle: Unknown
Location: Rockland County, NY
Concealment: Electronically-controlled compartment located beneath center console
Contents: 374 grams of heroin
Packaging: N/A
Masking Agent: N/A

Analyst Note: The bolts that held the console to the floor were missing. The console also appeared to have been removed. A piston-type mechanism was mounted under the console and to the sub-frame of the vehicle. This allowed the console to raise upward, allowing access to the compartment below. The compartment ran from the rear passenger seat to the dash board area.

TRACTOR TRAILERS WITH FALSE COMPARTMENT LOADS

Date: Unknown
Vehicle: Tractor Trailer (NFI)
Location: Between Bronx, NY and Schenectady, NY (NFI)
Concealment: False compartments within plywood cargo
Contents: 100 kilograms marihuana
Packaging: N/A
Masking Agent: N/A

Analyst Note: This concealment method was used two times within several weeks of each other, indicating a trend (at the time) for trafficking illicit drugs. In both cases, the trailer was a flatbed with a load of secured building material onboard that was exposed.

Photos 2-4 detail the false compartment load and marihuana

Information and photos courtesy of NYSP, and The Gulf Coast HIDTA
Date: November 2005
Vehicle: Volvo Tractor-Trailer
Location: Unknown
Concealment: Trap under floor of sleeper bed
Contents: $500,000 (USD)
Packaging: N/A
Masking Agent: N/A

Analyst Note: Officers pulled up the carpeting on the floor and observed a metal plate with four screws holding it in place. Access to the compartment was gained by removing the four screws and lifting up the plate. According to officers, the trap appears to have been capable of holding up to 20 kilograms, if used for transporting narcotics.

EXTRA SPARE TIRE REVEALS CONCEALMENT

Date: September 4, 2001
Vehicle: Tractor-Trailer (NFI)
Location: Plattsburgh, NY, Clinton County
Concealment: Spare Tires secured by chain and padlock
Contents: Each tire contained 13.6 kilograms of high-grade marihuana
Packaging: Plastic bags
Masking Agent: N/A

Analyst Note: Although a single spare is routinely carried, it is not uncommon for some trailers to be equipped with two spares, because the trailer has a mix of steel and alloy wheels and is carrying a spare for each. In this instance, however, the spares were both mounted to steel rims and secured “unusually well.” In addition, a fresh grease-like substance was present on the bead area of the tires, suggesting a recent installation.
FALSE FLOOR WITHIN EMPTY FLATBED TRAILER

Date: October 2000
Vehicle: Ford Pickup towing flatbed trailer
Location: Enroute from Tucson, AZ to Albany, NY (NFI)
Concealment: False-floor compartment of trailer
Contents: 642 kilograms marihuana
Packaging: Paper wrapping
Masking Agent: N/A

Analyst Note: The false-floor compartment was created by adding a steel plate to the bottom of the I-beams of the trailer.

Information and photos courtesy of EPIC, Highway Interdiction Intelligence
Date: Oct 24, 2007
Vehicle: Unknown make and model 18-wheel Tractor Trailer
Location: Enroute from South Texas to NYC (NFI)
Concealment: 23 bundles of cellophane wrapped packages commingled with boxes of tomatoes.
Contents: 14 bundles of cocaine weighing 200.9 kilograms with an estimated street value of $5 million (USD) and 8 bundles of methamphetamine weighing 41 kilograms with an estimated street value of $1.8 million (USD).
Packaging: Cellophane bundles.
Masking Agent: N/A

Analyst Note: During a safety inspection the Trooper noticed that the driver was very nervous. The Trooper also discovered that the driver was in violation of several motor carrier regulations. The driver stated he was hauling a load of tomatoes from South Texas to New York, NY. The Bill of Lading for the load was hand written and did not have a delivery address. The driver said he had to call his broker when he got to New York to get the location for the delivery; a very uncommon circumstance. After consent to search was granted, the Trooper discovered the contraband commingled with boxes of loose tomatoes in the trailer of the truck.

180 Kilograms of Cocaine Inside Wall of Tractor-Trailer

Date: June 12, 2008.
Vehicle: Kenworth tractor trailer, unknown year.
Location: Massachusetts/New York state line.
Concealment: A fabricated metal container located in the floor at the base of the trailer walls.
Contents: 180 kilograms of 'powdered' cocaine
Packaging: Plastic wrap and black electrical tape
Masking Agent: N/A

Analyst Note: Members of the New York Drug Enforcement Task Force (NYDETF) seized a Kenworth tractor trailer which had just dropped off a load of cargo in Boston, MA. An x-ray device maintained by the Department of Homeland Security, Border and Customs Patrol was utilized and ultimately revealed the elaborate compartment containing 'powdered' cocaine. The compartment was composed of a metal container located in the floor at the base of the trailer walls. The cocaine was loaded into the compartment and a metal cap was welded on.

On the floor of the compartment was an oiled cargo strap. This belt was used to facilitate the removal of the kilograms. This was done by pulling the strap out of the compartment. The strap and oil would allow the kilos to slide easily out of the steel box of the compartment. Without the use of the x-rays, this contraband would not have been discovered. The street value of the cocaine is $16 million dollars (USD).

USE OF BLEACH AS MASKING AGENT

Date: Unknown
Vehicle: FEDEX vehicle (NFI)
Location: Los Angeles County, CA
Concealment: Mail Package
Contents: 5.9 kilograms marihuana
Packaging: Cardboard box, packing peanuts, blown in foam, several dozen layers clear plastic wrap
Masking Agent: Bleach

Analyst Note: LA County Sheriff’s Department K-9 narcotics team, monitoring outgoing packages at a FEDEX facility in Long Beach, CA, hit on a parcel being shipped to a hotel in Albany, NY. The LA County Sheriff’s Department contacted Albany PD detectives to arrange a controlled delivery. The package arrived in Albany and was presented to a K-9, that also positively alerted. An attempt to conduct a controlled delivery of the package to the listed recipient at the hotel was unsuccessful.

According to K-9 handlers throughout the Northeast, bleach is an unusual masking agent to encounter when searching for drugs and handlers should be advised of this attempt to conceal the odor of narcotics.

HEADBOARDS CONCEAL HEROIN WITHIN ORNATE MOLDINGS

- Date: Unknown
- Vehicle: N/A
- Location: Queens, NY
- Concealment: Crafted into bedroom furniture
- Contents: 50 kilograms of heroin
- Packaging: See Analyst Note
- Masking Agent: N/A

Analyst Note: The heroin was mixed with an epoxy resin and molded into ornate molding designs. The molding was then glued to bedroom furniture. The moldings were stained to match the rest of the furniture, however the molding had a finish and texture inconsistent with that of real wood. The furniture was then shipped to New York to extract the heroin. The molding was removed from the furniture and ground to a powder. The powder was mixed with chemicals such as hydrochloric acid, ethyl acetate, and methylethylacetate to extract the impurities, and then filtered. Once the heroin was separated it was pressed into two-kilogram bricks.

FOUR DRAWER WOODEN DRESSER HIDDEN COMPARTMENT

Date: March 3, 2008
Vehicle: N/A
Location: New York City, NY
Concealment: A concealed compartment inside a dresser
Contents: $180,000 (USD)
 Packaging: N/A
Masking Agent: N/A

Analyst Note: Agents located a concealed compartment in a dresser, during a search of an apartment. The unit had a battery-powered electronic actuator that was operated via a magnetic switch. To gain access to the compartment the top right drawer must be removed, a magnet placed inside the opening to the right, and pressed against the top edge. To close the compartment, the magnet is placed along the left top edge of the opening. When the piston is activated, the marble top slides forward to expose the concealed area located at the rear of the dresser. The trap was approximately six inches deep and ran the full length of the dresser.

Indicators of a compartment include:
• Drawers cut short to make space for the compartment
• Cracked decorative molding
• Inconsistent spacing and blemishes in the finish
• Exposed nail holes in front where original molding was removed

USB FLASH DRIVE AS A HIDDEN MASS STORAGE DEVICE

Date: 2008
Vehicle: N/A
Location: Unknown
Concealment: USB flash drive modified and concealed as a wall phone jack
Contents: N/A
Packaging: N/A
Masking Agent: N/A

Analyst Note: The concept used in modifying a USB thumb drive could be modified to work with any external storage media device that is powered by a USB cable. The finished product would allow the user to store electronic data on the USB flash drive hidden in the wall of the residence disguised as a standard telephone outlet that could be easily overlooked during the execution of a search warrant.

This technique could be utilized by any individual that desired a method to covertly store data in a location that is not in the same physical space as their computer. This concealment method could be utilized by child pornographers, drug dealer, or other criminals attempting to hide financial records or other incriminating data. To the casual observer, the mass storage device appeared to be a normal telephone outlet. How to modify the Flash drive was posted on this internet forum page http://www.spyroforum.com/post-114962.html
